

User can add or manage a design from here

There will be another menu item in our Supplierz account called “Design Books”. This will only be in our supplierz account, not it the general supplierz account

When checked these designz will be available for builderz users and will populate the Builderz list. (See Builderz pages)

This is the same add/edit page as the admin page on Homeworx.nz

Now we look at the Builderz users pages

The manage designz page shows all the designs populated from the main Supplierz plus any they have added themselves. Designz added by the Main Supplierz can show a small house icon where ones that were added themselves won't show an icon

Clicking on Designz will take the user directly to the client interface page.

Clicking on the Add/Manage Designz will take user to this page

When checked these designz will be display on the Builderz User client interface page. (See Later page)

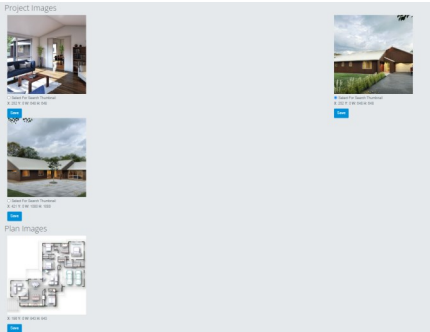

In the future we may say that the user can have 30 designs (not counting any designs they have loaded themselves) included with their subscription and then pay $1.00 per month for every extra design... but that's a feature we will add in the future.

If this was created by a Supplierz user, only the Designz name and thumbnail can be edited.

If it is a designz they added themselves, then everything can be edited.

It shows the search options as well as the names and thumbnails they have chosen. Only design that have the checkbox ticked on the manage designz page appear here.

The Price search option will also not be here as we have hidden price information.

Maybe the Builderz User logo on the page?

Also, maybe a more neutral colour scheme rather than red?
